

We enjoyed this sunny day in PA hard at work making lives for these seeds, while sprouting into ours. While I taught children about plant life, they most importantly taught me this summer that you do not always need to be in the classroom to learn.