

Interning with Zippo/Case, I got the chance to rub shoulders with dedicated customers, collectors, and professionals from the United States and around the globe. Throughout, I was impressed by how our company's small-town ethos can transfer over and bring so many people together.